

After a challenging year of a pandemic and social upheaval, I hope this spring finds you healthy and preparing to re-engage with family, friends, and colleagues.

I'm writing to share the news that after eight years leading Planned Parenthood of Northern New England, and more than twenty years with the Planned Parenthood family, Meagan Gallagher recently announced that she is moving on from PPNNE and will no longer serve as President and CEO.

We are deeply grateful for Meagan's service. Since becoming President and CEO in 2013, Meagan has led this organization through times that were full of opportunity, innovation, and swift growth, but also great challenge, complexity, and frequent change.

Even though Meagan has stepped away from being CEO, we know that she, along with our incredible leadership and staff, remains committed to PPNNE's values and mission.

During a transition period, Meagan is supporting a stellar Interim Transition Team made up of Nicole Clegg, Senior VP of Public Affairs; Yvonne Lockerby, VP of Centralized Operations; and Kai Williams, Senior VP of Health Care Delivery. Collectively, they have over three decades of experience at PPNNE. We are fully confident in their ability to lead our organization while we determine next steps in conducting a national search for our new CEO. PPNNE's mission and values will guide us as we move forward.

While leadership of PPNNE is changing, what won't change is our commitment to provide, promote, and protect access to reproductive and sexual health care and our belief that all people should be empowered to make their own health care decisions. We will keep working to make this a reality for our patients, communities, and partners.

As we move into this next phase of leadership at PPNNE, we know that—together—we will tackle any challenges ahead and seize each opportunity to protect and expand sexual and reproductive health access for all.

We know you join us in thanking Meagan for her service and wishing her well on her next endeavor.

And thank you for all the ways you support PPNNE. We couldn't do this work without you.

Best wishes on behalf of the PPNNE Board,

Margot Milliken
PPNNE Board Chair
