The Power of Political Myth - Part 1

April 25, 2020

Please note: Any link highlighted in yellow, if you purchase through that click, helps support me. Anything in cyan is a reference to another post of mine. Anything in magenta is an organization to whom you should consider tossing a few bucks or subscribing to support them. Here are my last five (counting "Ignoring Hashem's Wisdom" as one):

Wednesday Whittle (abbreviated version)Patriot's Day: The Day the Revolution Started*Brief: Thought trails and shudders from "essential workers"*WEDNESDAY WHITTLE*Ignoring Hashem's Wisdom*Ignoring Hashem's Wisdom - Part 2 of 3*Ignoring Hashem's Wisdom - Part 3 of 3

Three from the past, chosen at my whim:

Leftists: Civilizational traitorsGOPe's playing the old game*An Open Letter to a Politically-Conservative Jewish Friend

And just a quick one that I found while searching – which made me laugh in a sad way:

Wouldn't it be great if Democrats...

Speaking of the past: Volume I and Volume II. (If I get inspired I may just fold them all into one...)

Please don't forget my LINKFESTS. And my CARTOONS. And for those interested in such things, every Friday I do a Rule Five picture post. The last two:

AND SO I BEGIN...

(Image from this post by Adina Kutnicki)

As I struggle to know the Leftist enemy a la Sun Tzu's The Art of War, alongside Musashi's The Book of Five Rings, and Clausewitz's On War, anticipating (not enthusiastically) that things are heading towards The .223 Solution and a hot civil war, headed like a freight train on full throttle because they really do want us dead; The Left Hates You. Act Accordingly. (italics in original, my thought added in [], bolding also added):

The first step is to end the denial. Open your eyes. See what is happening. Don't allow yourself to be deluded by false nostalgia for a past period of cultural peace that existed only because, at that time, the Left was winning. They hate you. Look at Twitter. Look at Facebook. [Look at LinkedIn and what people post under their own names.] Try and tell yourself that leftists are just nice people who disagree with you on a few policy details. Stop fooling yourself.

*Understand that this must get much worse before it can get better. We may wish to stop the cultural/political struggle, but they can't stop. Their religion tells them we are greedy, racist, sexist, homophobic morons who hate science and love Hitler. How could they tolerate us? How could they ever allow us power?

I want to understand what they think. How they think. Why they think what they think, for it is clear this we're in a cold civil war and that this painting of everyone to the Right of Stalin as evil has been going on for a long time; The Scarlet "R": (bolding in original):

"Don't be fooled. this has not been an accidental strategy. It has a clear purpose. The purpose is not criticism of Conservatives nor a discussion of the issues; the purpose is to paint Conservatives as the ultimate evil. ... If Conservatives are the ultimate evil, then shouldn't people of good will do something to make sure that that evil is erased from the face from of the earth? ... Their minds [are being] prepared to [... accept...] that by eliminating Conservatives, they [... will be] ridding it of a disease. So, if you think about it and history, the greatest atrocities have been preceded by the preparation of people's minds. This is what we're seeing today. This is the nature of this war."

Don't forget their cough cough patron saint, Saul Alinsky, who said this (bolding added):

"There can be no conversation between the organizer and his opponents. The latter must be depicted as being evil."

Very early on in my blogging I said this, observing that this has been done and has become widespread throughout the very fabric of the Left; Prophecy from Star Trek's "Omega Glory" (italics in original):

Evil. Understand this. They view us as evil. Evil people who push grandma off cliffs. Evil people who starve babies, break up families, and who want to strip-mine the earth and are indifferent to the survival of every living thing. Evil people who want slavery, who want gays executed, and who want to consign women to perpetual slavery in the kitchen, bedroom, and delivery room. (To copy an internet meme, when did we become Muslims?)

More importantly, replies to comments I have made recently online make me grasp, in a gut-level way, that they're primed and ready. They believe that we are evil, that Trump is evil, and that they are good, righteous, and noble people who love America... and more importantly, that purging us is a good and righteous thing, and necessary to save America.

They have without question become a cult: read this series of articles about the Left being a cult. Being in an ongoing discussion with the author of that series, a thought has emerged from my subconscious – that the Left cleaves to a series of beliefs that have risen to enduring myth status.

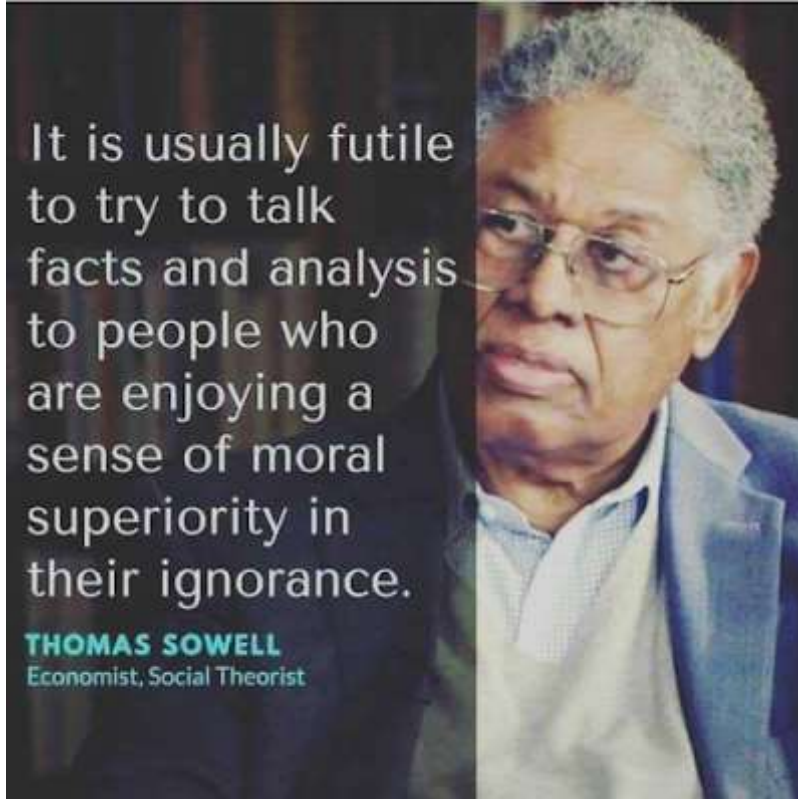

This emotionally-based acceptance of myth as political truth is one reason why the Left is so impenetrable to classical debate techniques:

Teflon Intellectuals

Teflon Intellectuals in the Wild

Teflon Intellectuals: Impenetrability leading to war

These myths resonate with what they want to believe is true – and these beliefs give them deep emotional satisfaction and ego inflation.

In truth, this is understandable. Nobody wants to believe they are a bad person. But that comes down to a conflict of visions – whether we are fundamentally flawed beings struggling to do right, or pure and noble beings corrupted by the world. I openly believe the former.

[Thomas Sowell and a Conflict of Visions / 37:38]

A Conflict of Visions: Ideological Origins of Political Struggles

THE POWER OF MYTH

Growing up in a PBS / NPR house in the Peoples' Republic of Cambridge, to two hard-core-left parents, one of the shows we watched was a series of interviews with Joseph Campbell. This built upon my interest in mythology in general. I was captivated by this series, so much so my parents bought me one of his books, The Power of Myth.

Every culture and civilization has myths and legends, many of which speak to something primal and foundational of that culture or civilization. As Bill Whittle noted in one of his recent videos (can't find the specific video), we in America have our own set of stories about persons early in our nation's history. Two that he specifically mentioned as being almost certainly myth, not actuality, are Washington's admitting to chopping down the cherry tree, and his throwing a silver dollar across the Potomac. Regardless of their truth, they resonate emotionally. They appeal to something far, far deeper in our minds than dry facts and pure logic.

So as you go through my examples, note that I am not going to attempt to an extensive fisting or outright debunking, nor is this intended to be a rigorous and exhaustive list of political myths on the Left, but rather to highlight some specific political myths – and hopefully muse a little at the end on how they might be fought. When protecting and maintaining the story becomes more important than living in and promoting reality – as outlined quite nicely here and it's follow-on piece here – we're in trouble because it becomes impossible to debate such people. Their replacement of OBJECTIVE REALITY (i.e., "testable truth" – something that Thomas Sowell noted was one of his key things in his move from Left to Right, as did Melanie Phillips, video below) has been replaced with SUBJECTIVE REALITY (i.e., "my truth).

Guardian Angel: My Journey from Leftism to Sanity

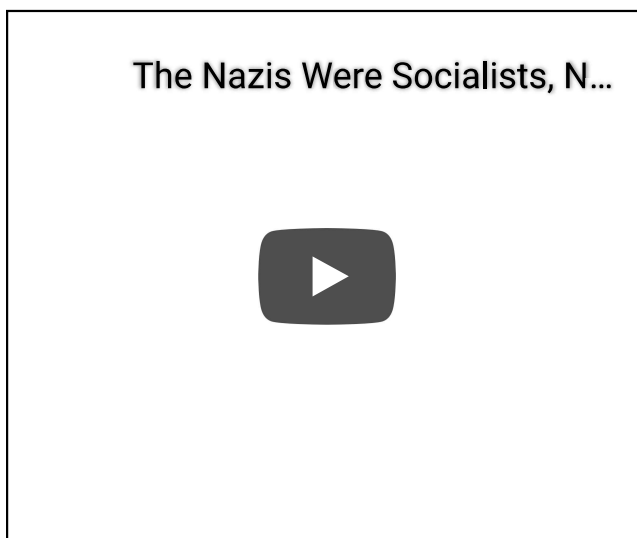

Keep that in mind: SUBJECTIVE TRUTH that feeds the ego has replaced OBJECTIVE TRUTH that often destroys it. That will come up later.

EXAMPLE: FASCISM IS RIGHT WING

Like most people I had believed that Fascism was a creature of the Right. Indeed, it was a staple argument often used to separate the “good” people from the “horrible” people. I.e., “Fascism is on the Right; since I am opposed to fascism (and who is not?) I must, therefore, be on the Left”. I believed it implicitly... until I read the following book, intrigued by the title:

Liberal Fascism: The Secret History of the American Left, From Mussolini to the Politics of Change

A few years later I ran across these two videos:

[The Nazis Were Socialists, Not Right-Wingers / 5:22]

[Is Fascism Right Or Left? / 5:37]

The speaker in the second video wrote an epic tome:

The Big Lie: Exposing the Nazi Roots of the American Left

which I own but confess I have not yet read aside from a cursory skim of the first chapter or so.

(In this post, when our money tonight sported a picture of a fasces, symbol of Roman authority, power and governance. My comment on the picture: This is where the Fascists got their name. And what party was in charge at that time?)

Yet other info, in far more digestible chunks, also shows that Nazis were creatures of the Left. For example; The Media's Revisionist History of Nazis (from where I took the quote, below) which quotes Ludwig von Mises (bolding added):

*It is of much greater consequence that the communists have succeeded in changing the semantic connotation of Fascism. Fascism...was a variety of Italian socialism....

Dictatorship and violent oppression of all dissenters are today exclusively socialist institutions.

The philosophy of the Nazis, the German National Socialist Labor Party, is the purest and most consistent manifestation of the anti-capitalistic and socialist spirit of our age....

*The slogan into which the Nazis condensed their economic philosophy, viz., Gemeinutz geht vor Eigennutz (i.e., the commonweal ranks above private profit), is likewise the idea underlying the American New Deal and the Soviet management of economic affairs. It implies that profit-seeking business harms the vital interests of the immense majority, and that it is the sacred duty of popular government to prevent the emergence of profits by public control of production and distribution....

It is not possible to read the above and not conclude the Nazis were true to their full party name – National Socialist German Workers Party. And on Italian Fascism, what did Benito Mussolini say? Here are a few (bolding added):

- Fascism conceives of the State as an absolute, in comparison with which all individuals or groups are relative, only to be conceived in their relation to the State.
- Do not believe, even for a moment, that by stripping me of my membership card you do the same to my Socialist beliefs, nor that you would restrain me of continuing to work in favor of Socialism and of the Revolution.
- We want an extraordinary heavy taxation, with a progressive character, on capital, that will represent an authentic partial expropriation of all wealth; seizures of all assets of religious congregations and suppression of all the ecclesiastic Episcopal revenues, in what constitutes an enormous deficit of the nation and a privilege for a minority; revisions of all contracts made by the war ministers and seizure of 85% of all war profits.

- Some still ask of us: what do you want? We answer with three words that summon up our entire program. Here they are...Italy, Republic, Socialization... Socialization is no other than the implantation of Italian Socialism...
- You cannot get rid of me because I am and always will be a socialist. You hate me because you still love me.

Again, I do not believe it possible to read the above and think that Il Duce was anything but a socialist.

Another resource, The 25 Points of Hitler's Nazi Party, has the vast majority of its points sounding collectivist, not individualist. And in researching this essay's section, I learned of this book, The Lost Literature of Socialism, 2nd Edition, reviewed here, with this quote from the review (bolding added):

In his autobiography, and in recorded conversations with intimates among his own followers, Hitler said such things as, "I have learned a great deal from Marxism, as I do not hesitate to admit," that "the whole of National Socialism is based on Marx," and that without racist commitments his own political movement "would really do nothing more than compete with Marxism on its own ground."

Hitler was not in these statements saying that he either was or ever had been a Marxist. From his first political activity, he had always been opposed to communism, but that was not because it was socialist, but because it was internationalist. Hitler, although born and raised in Austria, had always been a dedicated German nationalist.

Yet regardless of the above materials, amongst many others like this one, the emotionally-satisfying myth that Nazis were on the Right remains. Because if it were to penetrate their minds that the philosophy universally upheld as pure evil was on the same side as they are, and that their side, Communism has had an even greater murder toll (with Islam being the first), and also believed many of the same things today's Left believes... that would force people to face their beliefs and confront their dissonance:

"Sometimes people hold a core belief that is very strong. When they are presented with evidence that works against that belief, the new evidence cannot be accepted. It would create a feeling that is extremely uncomfortable, called cognitive dissonance. And because it is so important to protect the core belief, they will rationalize, ignore and even deny anything that doesn't fit in with the core belief."

- Frantz Fanon

The Left ignores all the evidence and history... to avoid admitting that they now are the modern Fascists – the thing they claim to reject.

[AMERICAN FASCISTS / 7:01]

EXAMPLE: PALESTINE EXISTS

T-shirt

Up until somewhere in the late 1950's and early 1960's there was no distinct "Palestinian identity". The Muslims living in Israel, or in the then-Arab controlled lands of Gaza and the illegally-annexed West Bank, thought of themselves as – for the most part – Syrians. Certainly this is what they thought before Israel was formed. There was no unique "Palestinian" identity.

That changed when the Egyptian-born Yasser Arafat had a completely fraudulent Soviet-sponsored makeover to change him into a "Palestinian patriot"; The Soviet-Palestinian Lie (quotes embedded from another source, bolding added):

The PLO was dreamt up by the KGB, which had a penchant for "liberation" organizations. There was the National Liberation Army of Bolivia, created by the KGB in 1964 with help from Ernesto "Che" Guevara ... the KGB also created the Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine, which carried out numerous bombing attacks... In 1964 the first PLO Council, consisting of 422 Palestinian representatives handpicked by the KGB, approved the Palestinian National Charter -- a document that had been drafted in Moscow. The Palestinian National Covenant and the Palestinian Constitution were also born in Moscow, with the help of Ahmed Shuqairy, a KGB influence agent who became the first PLO chairman...

*He was an Egyptian bourgeois turned into a devoted Marxist by KGB foreign intelligence. The KGB had trained him at its Balashikha special-operations school east of Moscow and in the mid-1960s decided to groom him as the future PLO leader. First, the KGB destroyed the official records of Arafat's birth in Cairo, and replaced them with fictitious documents saying that he had been born in Jerusalem and was therefore a Palestinian by birth.

You do have to admire the tactic. Instead of tiny Israel – remember that Israel, even with the so-called “West Bank”, is about the size of Massachusetts – against the enormity of the Muslim Arab world:

(Image source)

It was now immense Israel vs. tiny slivers of “Palestinians”.

(Image source Debunking "The Map that Lies")

Apparently there were plans for the land after the Jews were driven off – and they did not include a separate sovereign state; SOVIET RUSSIA, THE CREATORS OF THE PLO AND THE PALESTINIAN PEOPLE (italics in original, bolding added):

James Woolsey, former CIA director has been reported as stating that Papepa is credible. Papepa's account is also corroborated by Zahir Muhsein, a member of the PLO executive board. In an interview by the Dutch newspaper Trouw in 1977, he stated that there is no such thing as the "Palestinian People", that the term's use is a political ploy, and there is no quest for political self-determination — that as soon as the Jews have been wiped out, sovereignty would be turned over to Jordan. Hafez Assad also has stated there was no "Palestinian People"; that prior to 1964 the Arabs in Palestine called themselves "citizens of Greater Syria".

"The Palestinian people does not exist. The creation of a Palestinian state is only a means for continuing our struggle against the state of Israel for our Arab unity."

"In reality today there is no difference between Jordanians, Palestinians, Syrians and Lebanese."

PLO executive committee member Zahir Muhsein, 1977

The difficulty facing Israel is simple: the myth of a "Palestinian people" as the indigenous people has so taken root thanks to the USSR's efforts, with Arabs' eager acquiescence and acceptance, that – historical validity or not – Israel now has to deal with Arabs whose identity is now as Palestinians. Myth has become reality, inverting the open acknowledgement of the history of Israel being the historic homeland of the Jews by Arabs pre-Israel's restoration with an acknowledgement of the Temple being Solomon's Temple even by the Muslims in charge in the Official 1925 Supreme Moslem Council (Waqf) Guide Book to the Temple Mount:

The site is one of the oldest in the world. Its sanctity dates from the earliest (perhaps prehistoric) times. Its identity with the site of Solomon's Temple is beyond dispute. This too is the spot, according to universal belief, on which "David built there an altar unto the Lord and offered burnt offerings and peace offerings."

to today's outright denial of any Jewish tie to the land whatsoever.

That's some serious myth creation.

Still working on it, RPJ. You raise many questions that I've been trying to figure out for about 20 years now. My entire (ex) family are hard-core commie/libtards who have disowned me because I'm Catholic and a conservative. I keep reminding myself that if we boiled them all down we couldn't conjure up one full sized brain.

It has led me to the nature vs nurture and I'm firmly on the side of nurture - or, in their case, the peeps they hang with. Your chances of remaining a conservative if you live in the heart of commie big city are just about nil - in particular if you have abandoned religion.
